Germany Thinks French Army Has Been Bottled

'TIS OFFICIALLY CLAIMED THAT GERMAN SOLDIERS NOW SURROUND VERDUN

BERLIN, JAN. 18.—IT IS OFFICIALLY CLAIMED THAT VERDUN HAS BEEN "ENCIRCLED BY GERMAN TROOPS." THIS IS GENERALLY TAKEN HERE TO MEAN THAT THE GREAT FRENCH ARMY HAS BEEN BOTTLED UP AND WILL BE FORCED TO SURRENDER.

RUSSIAN REPORTS OF SUCCESSES IN EAST PRUSSIA AND IN NORTHERN POLAND ARE DENIED OFFICIALLY. THE GERMANS, IT IS INSISTED, ARE MAINTAINING THEIR POSITIONS IN THESE REGIONS AND ARE MAKING GAINS WEST OF WARSAW. THE OFFICIAL REPORT STATES THAT THE "RUSSIAN OFFENSIVE HAS BEEN BROKEN."

SEMINOLE COMMISSIONERS GRANT SHOLTZ FRANCHISE

BRIDGE ACROSS ST. JOHNS NOW ASSURED

ONLY CHANGE FROM VOLUSIA FRANCHISE IS TO STIPULATE DEFINITELY WHEN NIGHT TOLLS EFFECTIVE.

The only obstacle to the building of a toll bridge across the St. Johns river at Harden ferry (also known by several other names) was removed Saturday when the county commissioners of Seminole county granted to Michael Sholtz of Daytona a franchise to build and operate a bridge across the river. The franchise is substantially the same as granted to Mr. Sholtz by the commissioners of Volusia county at their last regular meeting, except that the Seminole commissioners stipulated definitely that the night rates of toll shall be effective from midnight until 5:00 in the morning.

The bridge is to be completed within 18 months after the war department grants permission to construct, and, according to the estimate of the men behind the project, will cost approximately $25,000. Except the 100-foot long steel draw, the structure will be of wood, and is to be 24 feet in width. The river at Harden ferry is slightly over 1500 feet wide.

As a guarantee that he will comply with the terms of the franchise, Mr. Sholtz will give a bond in the sum of $1,000 to the commissioners of Volusia and Seminole counties each.

County Commissioner J. D. Maley, of this city, thinks the bridge certainly will be ready for use by the public within 12 months, and that it is not improbable that it will be completed by the end of next summer.

All members of the Volusia county board of commissioners were present at the Seminole board's meeting.

TRAGEDY IN LOUISIANA.

SNOW IN LOUISIANA.

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 18.—Three inches of snow covers the ground here today. This is the heaviest in many years.

ABOUT 33,000 ITALIAN DEAD ACCOUNTED FOR; MORE TREMORS TODAY

ROME, JAN. 18.—FIVE TRAINS CARRYING QUICKLIME WERE SENT INTO THE EARTHQUAKE ZONE TODAY, WHILE SHOCKS CONTINUED TO RAZE BUILDINGS LEFT STANDING.

SIXTY TOWNS AND VILLAGES WERE TURNED INTO TOMBS BY WEDNESDAY'S AWFUL CATASTROPHE. RAIN HAS QUENCHED FIRES IN MANY PLACES.

LATEST OFFICIAL REPORTS PLACE THE DEAD AT 32,764, WITH INJURED ABOUT 82,000, BUT MANY OF THE LATTER WERE ONLY SLIGHTLY HURT. ABOUT 125,000 ARE HOMELESS. PREMIER SALANDRA STATED TODAY THAT HE BELIEVES THE DEATH LIST WILL NOT GO HIGHER THAN 35,000, EVEN WHEN ALL OF THE STRICKEN TOWNS ARE HEARD FROM.

TURKISH INVASION IS PERMANENTLY CHECKED

PETROGRAD, JAN. 18.—THE BATTLE OF KARAUrgan ENDED IN COMPLETE VICTORY FOR THE RUSSIANS. REMNANTS OF THE TURKISH ARMY ARE IN FULL FLIGHT TOWARD EZERUM, WITH THE RUSSIANS IN PURSUIT. THE ENEMY'S DEFEATED TROOPS ABANDONED GUNS, AMMUNITION AND FOOD SUPPLIES. THE OFFICIAL REPORT SAYS THIS WAS THE "GREATEST VICTORY YET ACHIEVED IN THE CAUCASUS." THE BATTLE LASTED THREE DAYS IN THE MIDST OF A HEAVY SNOWSTORM. IT WILL TERMINATE THE TURKISH ATTEMPT TO INVADE RUSSIA AND PERMIT RE-ENFORCEMENTS OF RUSSIAN TROOPS TO BE SENT TO PERSIA.

A Lunatic Crew

By M. QUAD

Copyright, 1914, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

We were due east of the island of Luzon, one of the Philippine group, and heading down the China sea with a cargo for London when we caught the tail of a typhoon. We were lying to and making fairly good weather of it when a Spanish ship, also lying to, hove into sight. She was lighter and drove faster to leeward. She was about a mile to windward of us when first sighted, and no great attention was given her until it was seen that she was drifting squarely down upon us. As she came nearer we saw that her crew were dancing about on her decks like a lot of drunken men and paying no attention to the storm. Her foretopmast had gone overboard, and much of her canvas had blown away, and she was being held in the wind's eye by a tarpaulin set in the rigging. A sheer of the wheel would have sent the Spanish ship clear of us by half a cable's length, but the fellows drifted down without paying us the slightest attention, and she did not move by ten feet. As she rode past we could look right into the eyes of her crew. They were about thirty in number, and they yelled and screamed at us like so many lunatics. Brief as was the time, we all noticed one peculiarity about them.

Beyond cursing the Spanish crew for a gang of idiots we had little to say. The idea of fear of the storm had made them take to drink, as is often the case, and they were going to Davy Jones' with a jug on. Six hours later the storm broke, and we headed our course, but within six hours we were pitching about on the troubled sea without way enough to rattle a feather. I turned in at 8 o'clock that night and turned out again at midnight for the morning watch. After midnight the sea began to go down very fast, and at 2 o'clock there was only what you might call a tumble on. It was then that we faintly caught the sound of voices in whooping and singing to the south of us. It was thick night, and nothing could be made out, but at 1 o'clock we got a light breeze and had not been waited along a knot when we had the Spanish ship again under our eyes. All her topmasts were gone now, while a portion of her bulwarks was smashed in, and she looked a bad wreck.

We headed for the wreck at once, and when we came within hailing distance we asked if help was wanted. The reply was a chorus of shrieks and screams, while many of the men shook their fists at us in defiance. It looked like a case of mutiny, and our captain was at a loss to know what step to take. Before he could make up his mind the Spaniards had lowered a boat and pulled for us. Every one of the crew piled into the boat, and we saw them grab up belaying pins, capstan bars and whatever else could be used as weapons. The boat came dashing at us with every man yelling and whooping, and they tried boarding us at once. We had no better weapons with which to beat them off, and we were three less in number, but when we looked into their fierce eyes and saw murder there we struck to kill.

They fought like tigers and seemed insensible to blows, but we bent them off at last.

Four of their number went to the bottom of the sea with broken skulls and of those pulled away all were more or less hurt. We knew now that they were lunatics instead of drunken men, and we stood by till noon in the hope that they would calm down. They appeared to after awhile, but just as soon as we lowered a boat they woke up again and raged like wild beasts. We could understand nothing of their shouts except that they were outlaws, and in the face of their determined opposition we could not board their craft. It was 2 o'clock in the afternoon before we squared away and left them, and then a fierce fight was going on, and at least one man had been thrown overboard to drown.

You may well guess that we aboard the Bristol were astonished and mystified by the singular incident, but the explanation when it came was very simple in a sense. The Spanish ship had a Filipino for a cook. He had trouble with both officers and men and was determined to have revenge. Before sailing from Luzon he had provided himself with a quantity of seed from the plant known as arripe. It is a wild kelp, and a decoction makes a madman of the drinker. How he managed to serve it out to the whole crew at once will never be known, but that was what he did and perhaps drank a share himself. The ship was manned by a lunatic crew when she drove down on us before the gale, and they were lunatics when we left them fighting and drifting. Ten days later the ship, which had become a wreck below and aloft, was picked up by a steamer and towed into port. Not a man living or dead was found on board. They had fought each other to the last and then the sole survivor had sought death beneath the waves. The cook had probably mixed the poisonous decoction with their coffee or wine soon after the storm had struck them, though not before she was in shape to ride it out. How long it was after we left them no one could say, but very likely not more than a day or so had passed when the last of the lunatics gave up his life and the ship went drifting and drifting with the sun drying up the hundred bloodstains on her littered deck.

FOES LIVE IN SAME TRENCH

When Fighting Wanes South of Ypres Germans Move in With Allies.

Boulogne.—A British soldier relates a remarkable story of how the English and Germans hobbled in the same trench a few miles south of Ypres. There were a handful of Germans and a smaller handful of allied forces. Trenches were but a few yards apart, and in these for more than a week the men of both sides had been bored and inactive. They amused themselves as best they could, exchanging messages, swapping newspapers and tobacco, hurling back and forth greetings and epithets. More days passed and still neither side received orders either to attack or to withdraw. Some sort of co-operation seemed necessary. Accordingly the Germans hoisted a white flag and, advancing under this, entered the allied trench for a conference. The result was that an agreement was reached that it would be more comfortable for all to live in one trench until one side or the other received orders.

The Germans moved over bag and baggage, and for a number of days all went well. Many of the Germans spoke English or French. Under the strange circumstances friendships sprang up. Both factions dreaded the arrival of a messenger. One day a messenger came, and plans for the renewal of hostilities were hastily made. But the messenger proved to be only a bearer of mail and newspapers for the Germans. All gathered around while a German began to translate the latest dispatch from Berlin.

Unhappily for the harmony of the gathering, it referred to Ostend by its German nickname, "Kales," spoke of bomb-droppings on various French towns and of contemplated air raids on Great Britain. The English frowned, growled; the French grew excited. Both sides had by agreement laid aside their rifles; but both sides still had their fists. Both used them. A free-for-all fight followed, and the unique compact came to an end.

ALBERT IS IDOL OF FRENCH

Belgian Monarch as King of France and Belgium Is Cry of Parisians.

Paris.—"Albert I. king of the French and of the Belgians," was the inscription recently cut on a few soaps by a French engraver to amuse himself, says the Oeuvre, and already people who have seen the inscription or heard of it are crying, "That's not such a bad idea."

The Belgian king is great-grandson of Louis Philippe, and if there were thought of returning to a monarchy he would be in the line of succession. He would be a very popular aspirant, in view of his course in the war.

One of the honors proposed for him by his Parisian admirers is to change the name of the Avenue du Bois de Boulogne to the Avenue Albert I. This is the thoroughfare by which all sovereigns visiting Paris are conducted from the Bois station to their headquarters in the city.

PIQUET WAR IN TRENCHES

Soldiers Have Regular Championship Matches Along the Battle Lines.

Paris.—Piquet, says the Figaro, is the favorite diversion of the French troops in the trenches along the battle lines. Some remarkable games are played between the crack players of the different companies.

Many of the contests are broken off suddenly by the bursting of shrapnel in or near the trenches. Not infrequently a game ends in a "dead" hand when some unfortunate player "passes out" forever while holding the winning cards.

"THAT AIRSHIP"
Written Especially for the Daily News
By DR. CHARLES FREDERIC GOSS
Author "Redemption of David Carson"

A hundred people, more or less, were listening to the melodious music of the band, when some one whispered, "There it is!" and pointed to an object sailing majestically through the sky. A few of the people looked up a languid interest, but there was no excitement, nor, even, any surprise. Already the greatest mechanical miracle of all the ages is being taken for granted.

How soon we cease to wonder. We gaze for a little while, or for a few times, upon the most stupendous phenomenon and it becomes the merest commonplace of life. It is by means of this fatal weakness of our minds that we lose the highest joy of human existence, "wonder." It is "wonder" that makes the life of a child the ecstasy that it is. The most ordinary event, or experience, or object fills its soul with delicious surprise. Everything in the universe is new and amazing, and this sense of novelty confers upon its spirit the freshness of dewy mornings. The moment, however, that he ceases to be surprised, he becomes world-weary and is seized with ennui.

It is a spiritual necessity to lose this sense of the amazing mystery of everything in the universe; there would be nothing of value to be said about the matter. If the soul of man could no more resist the wear and tear of life than a coin can that of the handling which it gets in passing from hand to hand and pocket to pocket; if there were no more chance to keep our souls than our eyes from getting dull, the less we should reproach each other, the wiser we should be. But the solemn fact of the matter is that it is our own fault if we lose this sense of wonder and so deprive ourselves of greatest joy of life. The trouble is, we cease to contemplate the mystery. We do not any longer "put our minds" upon the marvel! He who stops to think a moment, while gazing at a steam engine, a telegraph instrument, a telephone, a trolley car, an automobile, a star, a flower, the face of a child, is seized upon by the holy marvel with as irresistible a power as when he saw it first.

We ought to think! We owe it to ourselves to never let the mystery of these marvels lose their grip upon our minds. It is something like a spiritual crime to be able to gaze at that airship without the original thrill. When you see it next, consider the fact that in a decade you will lift your eyes, on the first chilly day of winter, and see a flock of these great migratory birds sweep southward, as the ducks do, a human family in each, bound southward to the land of sun and flowers. The mind of a fool alone could refuse its tribute of wonder to such a sight as that.

and the foe was diminished; it was not long before we came in sight of the enemy's lines. It was a solid, compact line, apparently motionless, but which, nevertheless, was advancing towards us at a walk, as they felt certain of victory against our onrushing torrent.

"We got close together and had our horses well in hand. A great cry went up: 'Charge! Charge!'"
"From every throat came the word, from us all frantic hurrahs were shouted as we bore down upon the enemy. Indescribable cries, the clashing of steel upon steel, the squealing of horses followed. Then began the just of slaughter and the groaning of the wounded.

"The dragoons of the guard fell around us, leaving many a riderless horse, which tore here, there and everywhere, adding to the confusion and panic among the enemy. Like an avalanche we broke through right to the rear of the German lines, the imperial dragoons crumpled up before us. Most of them galloped off, the rest lay upon the ground, dead and wounded.

"Suddenly a rattle is heard; it is the machine guns of the enemy opening fire upon us, and the German artillery is seen coming into action. We immediately broke out into open order, changing our front, and at the same time we heard the reply from our own artillery beginning, while to our left and right our infantry attack was developing so rapidly that the German artillery, fearing to be outflanked, retired upon Guillemont.

"Since that day Albert has no longer been bombarded, and when our 'pious' pass by La Basselle they say with enthusiasm:

"It's just here we ate up the dragoons of the imperial guard."

ROLL CIGARETTES FOR MEN

London Women Abandon Knitting for a New Fad for Relief of the Soldiers.

London.—Rolling cigarettes for relatives, sweethearts, and friends in the fighting line is just now the occupation of many women here, who believe tobacco in this form will be more appreciated than packages of cigarettes manufactured in the ordinary way. It is not an uncommon sight to see women rolling cigarettes in the lobbies of some well-known hotels, and many have temporarily given up knitting to make cigarettes. Symmetry, of course, is not much in evidence in these productions, which often swell toward the center like cigars, but Tommy Atkins will probably be able to smoke them despite their shortcomings.

Warfare and Rain.

It is one of the extraordinary things of warfare that a big battle invariably produces torrents of rain. History contains innumerable instances, both on land and sea, and on more than one occasion the storm or showers that followed an engagement had no small influence upon the life of nations.

IN DASHING CHARGE

Chasseurs d'Afrique Like Irresistible Torrent.

French Colored Soldiers Win Fame in Attack by Which Superior Force of Germans Was Dislodged at Albert.

By PATRICK DE BATHE.
(International News Service.)
Northern France.—I have just obtained particulars of the magnificent charge of the chasseurs d'Afrique by which the allies retained possession of Albert. The Germans attacked Albert time and again with great ferocity. The busy industrial town was reduced to a mass of ruins by the bombardment.

In order to dislodge the enemy it was found necessary to have recourse to a vigorous counter-attack. At the same time great masses of German cavalry were reported to be about five miles from Albert.

The French staff sent forward a regiment of chasseurs d'Afrique to meet this cavalry body, which proved to be the Prussian dragoons of the guard. The Prussians were threatening the French line of communication with Aveluy.

The gallant chasseurs, mounted upon their little Arab steeds, advanced along the road to Becordel. From this point I quote from the words of a chasseur of the party, now in the hospital:

"We all felt as calm as possible, and were eager to measure our strength against the dragoons of the imperial guard. At a mile or two from La Basselle we made a halt.

"The colonel turned in his saddle, looking at us all, and, rising in his stirrups, waved his sword as he shouted in a voice of thunder:

"Escadrons, garde a vous, pour chargez, sabre main, au trot—au galop—marche!"

"The bugles sounded the charge, and all the officers repeated the words of command.

"The spirit of all the men was splendid. We all felt this was a supreme moment. Off we went.

How a Dowry Was Procured

By MARGARET C. DEVEREAUX

Between Switzerland and France there is a chain of mountains running in a northeasterly direction to Basel. Within the Swiss border there lived a watchmaker named Cremloux. His daughter, Clochette, was a very pretty girl, seventeen years old, with black hair and eyes and an olive complexion, through which on each cheek shone a rosy color like that on a ripe peach. Alphonse Boyer, a young wood cutter, met Clochette at a dance and thereupon came one of those quick love affairs that spring up like mushrooms between young persons of opposite sex. For a while Clochette concealed the affair from her father, for woodcutting has never been a profitable occupation, and Alphonse was poor as a church mouse. She did not think, therefore, that her father would permit her to marry her lover, especially since there was no dowry for her. But those who love and are kept apart soon are worn out, and at last Clochette told her father her secret, adding that if she could not marry Alphonse she did not care to live. Cremloux, fearing that his daughter would destroy herself, after much thought said to her:

"I will consent to your marrying Alphonse on condition that you or he can make enough money for your dowry. You will need 2,000 francs with which to begin housekeeping and have a nest egg. I will help you. I know a manufacturer in Geneva who will furnish me on credit with watch springs. There is a heavy duty on them when transported to another country. We are near the border of France. If you or Alphonse can smuggle enough watch springs into that country to produce a profit of 4,000 francs I will consent to the marriage. The duty is 40 per cent. Therefore to produce 4,000 francs you must get 10,000 francs' worth of watch springs into France free of duty. But if you are caught smuggling the goods will be confiscated. Therefore you must not risk doing all at one time. Risk only 2,000 francs' worth at each attempt."

Clochette conveyed this information to her lover, and they agreed to accept the conditions, making alternate trips with each other across the mountains into France. The customs officers were alert, and ingenious devices were needed to deceive them. Clochette agreed to make the first trip, and Alphonse made for her a pair of wooden shoes in such fashion that when the outside and inside, which were separate, were placed together the whole would look like one shoe. But between them he left a space, which would contain the watch springs. Using this device, Clochette passed the customs officers successfully, and the first installment of the dowry was won.

Alphonse next started with an equal number of springs. Since it was the hunting season, he took his gun and game bag and, going up into the mountains, began to shoot squirrels and other game. A customs officer, hearing the reports, approached and, seeing a huntsman, made the necessary examination, then let him go where he liked. Alphonse's gun had two barrels, and one was full of watch springs.

Clochette's turn coming next, she carried her consignment through in a handbox with a false bottom. An officer took everything out of the box, but did not discover the trick.

This left one more trip for each. Alphonse's turn coming next. He ascended the mountains with an ax on his shoulder and on reaching the summit began to chop. A customs officer joined him, and unluckily he was the same man who had seen him as a huntsman. This made him suspicious.

"I thought you hunted?" he said to Alphonse.

"Oh, that was only for a day's sport. I am a wood-chopper. I am to cut twenty cords of wood and must do it at once."

"Nevertheless I must search you," said the other.

He made a careful investigation, but found nothing on Alphonse that was detectable. Having satisfied himself, he went away, and the wood-chopper soon slipped down the mountain side to the westward. His ax handle was hollow and full of watch springs.

There was now but one more trip to be made by Clochette, but, having made two and met a different customs officer each time, she feared that she might meet one of the two, in which case his suspicions would be excited.

When she went up the mountain with her watch springs she carried a large bouquet of flowers. She did not attempt to go through by any unrequited route, but by a paved road. When she came to the summit there stood a man who was expected to look out for smugglers. As soon as Clochette saw him she winced. He was the man she had passed with the hand-box.

"You come this way very often," he said, eyeing her suspiciously.

"Only once before."

"Twice before. The first time I saw you, but you did not see me. Come in here."

He took her into a customs station, where he turned her over to a woman to be searched. Nothing was found on her, and, picking up her bouquet, she held it under their noses, then walked away, saying:

"You customs people are very suspicious."

This time the last consignment of watch springs was in the bouquet. Alphonse and Clochette were married and lived happily.

A BALKAN EPISODE

By LOUISE B. CUMMINGS

The Balkan states are half a dozen little kingdoms that have been fighting one another from time immemorial, and all of them have been fighting the Turk. If the many occurrences in the Balkans of a romantic nature could be gathered together there would be enough of them to supply story tellers for hundreds of years. The following is a sample:

Not far from Adrianople there lived a country girl named Tarissa. She was a Christian inhabiting a region ruled by the Turks. Tarissa's home was just south of the border line between Turkey and Roumelia. One day a party of Roumelians headed by a young man, Boris Lovatz, came down the valley of the Maritza river in pursuit of a band of Turks who had carried off some Roumelian women. Before his return he had met Tarissa and there had resulted a love affair. Lovatz was successful in rescuing the women he had come for and went back into Roumelia.

Had it not been for having met Tarissa he might never have come into Turkey again and been safe from the revenge due him for the rescue. But there is no risk a man will not take for love, and it was not long before he was again across the border on a visit to his sweetheart. Indeed he came so often that it got out among the Turks that this enemy had been captivated by a girl and was making periodical visits to her. So a watch was set for him.

One day the spy who was selected for this service went to a Turkish officer who was on duty in the neighborhood and told him that Boris was with Tarissa. The officer directed several of his men to mount their horses, and placing himself at their head, he rode toward the hamlet where Tarissa lived. Dusk was falling, and the Turk, before reaching the hamlet, directed his men to remain where they were and rode forward alone to reconnoiter, for he knew that Boris was as slippery as an eel and if he was aware that a force was coming to take him he would be off like the wind.

When near Tarissa's home the officer approached cautiously, and since it was dark he reached a window without being seen. In the room into which he looked were Boris and Tarissa. Boris was trying to induce the girl to go back with him and become his wife. She hesitated since he was marked for destruction in Turkey and could never come back with her to her home. So intent were they with each other that they did not notice the appearance of the Turk at the window till they heard a click and, looking up, saw him leveling a pistol at Boris.

The Roumelian realized that he was doomed and, preferring to die by a bullet without being tortured, as he doubtless would be if he were captured, put his hand to his hip for a weapon. But he had unclasped his belt and laid it on a chair. Tarissa saw his eye turn toward the chair, and anticipating his intention to die defending himself, she threw herself between him and his weapon.

This placed her between the officer and her lover. Since the former could not shoot without killing her he sprang in through the window and, covering Boris, called on him to surrender. There was nothing else for the captive to do since he had nothing with which to make a defense except to induce his captor to shoot him.

The next move of the Turk was to get his prisoner to his men or his men to his prisoner. The latter was not an easy thing to do, for the men were beyond call, and he had no one to send for them. Keeping his pistol pointed toward Boris, he glanced out through the window to see if any one was near, for he was in a Christian hamlet, and if he attempted to drive his captive to his men he might get a bullet from some one of the little clump of houses.

During these few moments in which he was obliged to keep so many things in his mind there were two very important matters that he failed to grasp. One was Tarissa and the other Boris's belt, to which was slung his pistol, though he may not have seen the latter. The Turk's glance through the window enabled Tarissa to take a step backward so that by placing her back behind her she might reach the weapon. Not seeing any one without to send for his men, he ordered Boris to precede him through the doorway and out of the house. Boris obeyed, and as the men passed out, the Turk keeping his eyes fixed on his prisoner, Tarissa possessed herself of Boris' pistol. She now had every advantage, for she was behind the Turk. Only the knowledge that her lover would die a frightful death enabled her to kill a man in cold blood. Stealing up close to the Turk, she shot him through the head.

Boris turned, saw the Turk fall and Tarissa with a smoking pistol in her hand.

"Go," she said. "There must be others near."

Without a word he sprang on to the horse on which he had come, and as he passed out of sight the Turkish soldiers were heard coming.

Boris escaped. Tarissa hid in the darkness for a time, then set out to join him.

Neither of them ever entered Turkey again, for they knew that Boris would be killed and Tarissa would meet a worse fate. In their home in Roumelia they were safe.

In Both Senses.

First Shopper—"So your husband refused to wear that lovely blue and mauve waistcoat you bought for him last week?" Second Shopper—"Yes; he declared it went against his stomach."

Clever Utilization of Power.

At a mine in South Africa, says Prometheus, the water supply has to be drawn from a considerable distance, and must, on its way, cross a ridge some 600 feet high. The water arriving at the mine is thus under considerable head, and power is recovered from it by means of Pelton wheels driving dynamos. In this way from 90 to 160 horsepower is gained, according to the volume of water flowing, and is utilized for various purposes at the mine. At another mine the cars conveying the ore run down an incline a vertical distance of about 250 feet. From the 2,200 tons of oil daily mined some fifty horse power of electrical energy is here recovered by winding the cable of each car around a drum which actuates a dynamo.

Making a Skylight Drip-Proof.

A Pennsylvania wire glass company has evolved a new type of glass that solves a problem of much importance to many manufacturing plants—that of eliminating the drip from the underside of skylights. In many of the arts, in silk and cotton mills, paper factories or chocolate works, the falling of a single drop causes much damage. The new glass has an undersurface with eight webs or channels to the inch, the webs being of such form as to give the greatest degree of capillary attraction. The result is that even when pitched as low as ten degrees above the horizontal, all condensation is held and carried down to the gutter at the foot of each sheet.

The Retort Courteous.

The telephone girls are forbidden to "answer back," no matter how abusive a customer may be. Sometimes they get around these hard conditions in a very clever way. An instance of the retort courteous happened recently in Los Angeles in one of the big exchanges.

After vainly trying for ten minutes to get the number he had asked for, the irate customer shouted: "What the deuce is the matter with you telephone girls, anyhow—are you all crazy?"

The answer came with exasperating sweetness: "I don't know. Ask information."

Meet Famous Spot in France.

The guide books tell us that the Place de la Concorde is the most extensive and strikingly handsome "place" in Paris. This is entirely true, but it is only another way of saying that it is the most beautiful and impressive open square possessed by any city in the world. And this is not all. Within its bounds more great events have taken place, more history has been written in blood than within any other similar compass. Here, January 21, 1793, the head of Louis XVI fell under the knife of the guillotine, the beginning of that long procession that ended only when the revolution had finished "eating its own children."

Plenty of Smiths.

The unassailable supremacy of the "Smiths" in London can be estimated from the telephone directory. The honorable family of Jones, for example, occupies not quite four pages. The Robinsons, who have a place with the greatest, do not require two pages. But the Smiths begin on page 762 and end on page 770.

Truly a Grasping Man.

"The graspiest man I ever knowed," said Uncle Jerry Peebles, "was an old chap named Snoopins. Somebody told him once that when he breathed he took in oxygen and gave out carbon. He spent a whole day tryin' to find out which of them two gases cost the most if you had to buy 'em. He wanted to know whether he was makin' or losin' money when he breathed."

Of Matters Egotistical.

PERSISTENT ADVERTISING IS SURE TO BRING SUBSTANTIAL RESULTS

Slow but sure are the representative business concerns of the peninsula beginning to realize the importance of advertising in the local newspaper as against numerous methods that are almost daily advanced, but from which little or no results are to be obtained. To quote the exact words of one man, who was approached with the proposition to take space in the Daily News, is to relate that oft-told story which runs something like this:
"I have spent more money for advertising already this season than my business warrants, and while I believe in it as the best means to let the public know you are not sleeping, the fact remains I cannot afford to spend any more at present." This same man admitted, before the conversation came to a close that his hard-earned cash had been spent to feather the pockets of advertising fakirs, not a dollar of which had been left with the people upon whose trade he was dependent for a living. A little argument along the lines of persistently keeping before the public the fact that there is "something new under the sun every day" finally won a recruit to the advertising columns of the Daily News, and the new ad appears for the first time today.

Cooks Held in High Honor.
There is no better proof of the delicacy of the Greek palate than the honor in which cooks were held. They plied their trade with the greatest freedom, and, not being attached to this master or that, they were called in by the rich on occasions of brilliant festivity. What wonder then the cook's was a respectable profession, becoming a free man?

Daily Thought.
It is not what we read, but what we remember that makes us learned. It is not what we intend, but what we do that makes us useful. It is not a few faint wishes, but a lifelong struggle that makes us valiant.—Henry Ward Beecher.

If you have a furnished house to rent, or a spare room that might be

Whale Among Fishing Boats.
A large whale struck the fishing boat Jane recently, while it was engaged in herring fishing five miles off Girvan, Scotland. The boat was undamaged, but the incident caused considerable alarm among the crew.
The S. S. Ailsa, lying between Girvan and Ailsa Craig, narrowly escaped having its propeller fouled by one of three whales which were in the vicinity.

French Loquacity.
There is no nation like the French.
A French milliner will make a hat out of a piece of felt and nothing; and a French official will make a diplomatic episode out of nothing at all, putting into five minutes of futility all the Gaulic civilization of centuries.—Arnold Bennett in the Century Magazine.

MR. CASTLE NOW AT A HOSPITAL

Mr. Castle, brother of Mrs. Harriet Campbell, both of whom are spending the winter on Palmetto avenue, is now in St. Mary's hospital at Daytona, under treatment. Mrs. Campbell and her brother have spent six winters in Daytona Beach. Mr. Castle is well advanced in the 70's, and has been in poor health for some time.

About the Orchid.
In 1768 only 30 specimens of Epi-dendra were known to be under cultivation. In 1712 a traveler noted some specimens in Japan, but up to 1820 orchids were looked upon as a curiosity in botanical gardens. The "moth orchid," grown in the Philippines, is an air plant, as are many of the specimens. The price paid for this rare bloom was 100 guineas.

Fair Warning.
A brazen-lunged newsboy in a western city has been having a good deal of fun at the expense of the wearers of freakish skirts. His method has the simplicity of genius. As his victim goes by she is startled to hear a loud cry: "Git out of town!"
Her indignant look brings a repetition of the cry, with a slight addition which does not altogether propitiate her: "Git out of town—palpers!"

Not the Right Notion.
A very sordid notion prevalent in the minds of many, is that the schools are largely to teach the boy and girl how to earn money. In my mind, much more importance should be placed upon the proper enjoyment of it than upon the mere acquisition of wealth and other worldly goods. We school teachers should aim to teach the child to appreciate the finer things in life, such as right living, beautiful surroundings both indoors and out.—A. C.
Morris.

HUNDREDS VISIT THE BEACH AND CASINO

NATURE'S FIFTH AVENUE WAS THROGGED ALL SUNDAY AF-TERNOON WITH PEDESTRIANS AND AUTOMOBILES.

More people visited the beach and Nautilus casino Sunday afternoon than at any time during the present season. Hundreds walked over, other hundreds rode in automobiles and every street car carried its full quota of passengers from shortly after dinner until late in the day.

The weather being fine did more than anything else toward packing the big casino with a good-natured crowd, and when once inside a delightful musical program rendered by the lady orchestra caused the visitors to "stick" around a good share of the afternoon. A strong south wind made aviation dangerous, and many who had come to the beach expecting to see Ruth Law make a flight, went away somewhat disappointed.

But very few bathers ventured into the surf yesterday, owing to the frigid temperature of the water, and those who did get up sufficient courage to take a plunge remained in the water just long enough to get wet over, and the rest of the time was spent in running up and down the beach in an effort to keep from freezing. This habit of taking a dip every day of the year, regardless of weather conditions, may be alright for "hard shell crabs" but it won't do at all for "jelly fish."

Clarendon folk, seated in the spacious sun parlor on the ocean side of the big hotel, reviewed the crowd as it passed to and fro along Nature's Fifth avenue.

PALMETTO CLUB TO HOLD BANQUET JAN. 20

The Palmetto club will hold its annual banquet at the Clarendon hotel, as usual, the date being January 20th. Covers will be laid for 150 persons and an especially prepared musical program will be rendered by the orchestra. Since the Palmetto club's annual banquet is one of the biggest social affairs of the season, everything will be done by the management of the hotel to insure a pleasing and successful culmination of the event.

If anything worth while happens in Daytona, look for a story about it in the Daily News.

HOW MANY TIMES HAVE YOU SAID

"IF I HAD ONLY BOUGHT LOTS OVER ON THE BEACH WHEN I FIRST CAME HERE I MIGHT HAVE BEEN RICH TODAY. I COULD HAVE BOUGHT ACRES FOR THE PRICE AT WHICH SINGLE LOTS ARE SELLING TODAY. ACREAGE CANNOT BE BOUGHT AT ANY PRICE. WHAT A FOOL I WAS." LET US POINT OUT A WAY FOR YOU TO GET IN AND MAKE UP.

DID YOU IMAGINE SUCH A THING AS A STREET CAR LINE TO THE BEACH FIVE YEARS AGO? PERHAPS YOU DID IMAGINE IT--IT IS A REALITY NOW. WOULD YOU HAVE BEGGED, BORROWED, OR ARRANGED IN SOME WAY TO GET HOLD OF ENOUGH MONEY TO BUY SOME BEACH PROPERTY, COULD YOU HAVE BEEN ASSURED THAT A CAR LINE WAS GOING TO BE BUILT TO YOUR PROPERTY? IF ANYONE COULD HAVE TOLD YOU POSITIVELY THAT THE CLARENDON HOTEL WAS GOING TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE DONE LIKEWISE, BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY POSSIBLE, ACCORDING TO YOUR MEANS? COULD ANYONE HAVE ASSURED YOU THAT THE NAUTILUS PROPERTY WAS TO BE IMPROVED AS IT IS TODAY--THAT A BASEBALL PARK WAS TO BE BUILT WHERE IT IS, WOULD YOU NOT HAVE BOUGHT ALL THE PROPERTY YOU COULD HAVE GOT HOLD OF?

THE STREET CAR LINE IS NOW BEING EXTENDED THROUGH OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS, WHICH WILL PUT IT WITHIN TWELVE MINUTES' RIDE OF DOWNTOWN. COMPARE THE PRICES OF SEABREEZE LOTS WITH THE PRICES WE ARE ASKING FOR OCEAN VIEW HEIGHTS LOTS. WE ARE OFFERING THE OCEAN FRONT LOTS, WHICH ARE FIFTY BY THREE HUNDRED AND TWENTY-FOUR, AT SIX HUNDRED AND NINETY-FIVE DOLLARS EACH, WHILE THE INSIDE LOTS, FIFTY BY ONE HUN-DRED AND FORTY, ARE OFFERED AT ONE HUNDRED AND SEVENTY DOLLARS EACH. A TWENTY-FIVE PER CENT PAYMENT IS ALL THAT IS REQUIRED DOWN, WITH EASY TERMS.

WERE WE TO PREDICT THAT WITHIN A FEW YEARS THE ENTIRE BEACH WILL HAVE A BOARD-WALK WITH AN OCEAN PIER, LARGE HOTELS, WHICH WILL COMPARE FAVORABLY WITH THOSE OF ATLANTIC CITY. THAT STREET CAR LINES WILL CONNECT WITH DELAND, NEW SMYRNA, SANFORD, ORLANDO AND OTHER INTERIOR POINTS, YOU WOULD CALL US DREAMERS, BUT WE ARE PREDICTING JUST THAT VERY THING. NOW THINK OF WHAT THIS WILL MEAN TO THE PROPERTY ON THE BEACH. NOW IS THE TIME, MR. READER, TO GET IN ON THE GROUND FLOOR WHILE THESE PRICES ARE REDICULOUSLY LOW, FOR WHEN ALL THESE THINGS SHALL HAVE TAKEN PLACE THE PRICES NATURALLY WILL BE WAY UP, AND YOU SHOULD BE THE ONE TO REAP THE BENEFIT, FOR ONCE IN YOUR LIFE PUT YOURSELF IN THE POSITION WHERE THE OTHER FELLOW WILL HAVE TO SAY, "YOU HAVE MADE A LOT OF MONEY ON LOTS WHICH YOU WERE FARSIGHTED ENOUGH TO PURCHASE WHEN THE PRICES WERE LOW."

IT'S NOT LUCK--IT IS JUST GOOD BUSINESS SENSE--TAKING ADVANTAGE OF AN OPPORTUNITY--AN OPPORTUNITY THAT DOES NOT COME EVERY DAY, AND YOU SHOULD NOT DELAY. IT WILL BE A PLEASURE TO DEMONSTRATE THE PROPERTY TO YOU, IF YOU WILL GIVE US THE OPPORTUNITY, AND TELL YOU OF THE CONTEMPLATED IMPROVEMENTS AND ANY FURTHER PARTICULARS THAT YOU MAY DESIRE. NOW IS THE TIME TO INVESTIGATE. OPPORTUNITY IS KNOCKING AT YOUR DOOR. DON'T PASS IT UP.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. B. Overton and infant son arrived Saturday evening from Queens, Long Island, N. Y., and joined Mrs. Overton's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Kreitzberg, and other members of the family at their home in the Arcade building. Mr. Overton, who is employed with the Long Island railway, will be here for about a month, but Mrs. Overton and baby will probably be here for the remainder of the season.

THE WALLS ENTERTAIN
THE PRESIDENT OF CUBA

A copy of the Isle of Pines Appeal of the date of January 2nd, received by William Atwood of this city, contains notice of the visit to the island of the president of Cuba. His excellency, Mario G. Menocal, together with a party of friends which included some of the important officials and dignitaries of Cuba, cabinet officers, members of the Cuban senate and commanders of the forces of the army and navy. The party made a tour of the island and the Appeal says that at Santa Fe the president and some of the members of the party visited "Villa Aurora," the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Irwin Wall, where an informal reception was tendered them. Mr. and Mrs. Wall were at one time residents of Daytona and have many friends in this city and vicinity. They spent the winters at Santa Fe, Isle of Pines, where they have a handsome home. Mr. Wall went from this place to the Isle of Pines shortly after the close of the Spanish-American war and was very successful in land investments there.

PASTOR OF PARK CHURCH
PREACHES AT HOLLY HILL

Residents of the town of Holly Hill had the pleasure of listening to a sermon Sunday afternoon by Rev. Dr. S. E. Eastman, pastor of Park church, of Elmira, N. Y. Dr. Eastman preached in the Union church and was assisted in the services by Rev. W. J. Neese, pastor of the Kingston M. E. church. Although the attendance was good for so small a town, it is doubtful if Dr. Eastman has preached to so small a congregation within many years, yet he probably has had no more interested listeners. The theme of his sermon was "The Errand of Jesus." Dr. Eastman is a brother of Mrs. W. H. Edmondson and has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Edmondson for a few days at their home in Holly Hill. He leaves today for a trip down the East Coast and to Cuba, but will stop here again before returning north at the conclusion of his month's vacation.

Armageddon.
Literally Armageddon means "hill of Mageddo." Figuratively the word means the place of the great battle, wherever it may be—the scene of the struggle of good and evil. There was never any actual battle of Armageddon.

REV. STUART MARTIN
DIES IN ENGLANDEPISCOPAL MISSIONARY ON EAST COAST FOR MANY YEARS, RECTOR OF ST. MARY'S CHURCH OF THIS CITY.

C. F. Wetherell, of Holly Hill, is in receipt of a letter from the Rt. Rev. Joseph M. Francis, bishop of Indiana, conveying information of the death some time in November of Rev. H. B. Stuart Martin, at Surrey, England.

Mr. Martin was one of the early residents of this section, doing missionary work along the East Coast for many years, and it was largely through his efforts that St. Mary's Episcopal church of this city was built. He owned a residence and much other property at Holly Hill and also at one time a place on Merritts Island, where he spent several years.

Mr. Martin went north about ten years ago and was rector of the Episcopal church at Canalton, Ind., and later at New Harmony, Ind., from which place he went to England three years ago to pass his declining years.

MIDWAY NEGROES IN JAIL FOR "TIGERING"TWO MEN AND A WOMAN CAUGHT SELLING WHISKEY BY LOCAL POLICE--CARRIED TO DELAND FOR TRIAL.

Charlie Johnson and Will Sparks, both colored, were arrested in Midway by members of the local police force and carried to the county jail at Deland, Saturday, to await trial in the criminal court. Johnson and Sparks are charged with the offense of selling whiskey.

A little later another "blind tiger" was raided in Midway, and Mabel Stillman, a negress, was arrested. She was carried to Deland, Sunday morning, and lodged in jail. Mabel came here recently from Espanola. The other negroes are also newcomers to Daytona.

Chief of Police Milton informed a representative of this paper that his department is not making any special campaign against illicit dealers in liquor, but that he is determined to keep "tab" on numerous "neverworks" whose rendezvous, day in and day out, is about the poolrooms and "joints" of darktown. The Stillman woman's arrest was the fifth made here recently for the same offense.

Improvement on the Saw.

The efficiency of the saw has been greatly increased by the recent invention of a Frenchman. The teeth of the new saw are arranged in alternate groups--four pointing forward and then four pointing back. For cutting metal the new saws are almost twice as efficient as saws of the usual pattern. They last six times as long. The blades do not break easily. They cut either wood or metal and are made in a great variety of shapes and styles.

Killing Off the Race.

From the Christian era till the present time, as statisticians and historians tell us, there have been less than two hundred and forty warlike years. Up to the middle of the nineteenth century it was roughly computed that nearly seven billion men had died in battle since the beginning of recorded history, a number equal to almost five times the present estimated population of the globe.--Christian Herald.

DAYTONA LOSES
GAME TO MIAMIFAST GAME THROUGHOUT WAS WON BY MIAMI TEAM WITH THE CLOSE MARGIN OF 26 TO 23.

With Everett Drake, star full guard of the D. H. S. team, held, the silver and blue host of Miami, H. S., Saturday evening, 26 to 23. The game was fast throughout, neither team leading by more than ten points at any time.

Everett Drake and T. M. Wetherell had accepted an invitation for a ride on the bay in the afternoon, the boat getting aground on a sand bar they did not get back to Miami until after the finish of the game. Doty, who took Drake's place, played stellar ball, but the team was thrown off just enough to make the meagre difference between victory and defeat.

The teams fought evenly through the first half, the period ending with a score of 12 to 12. D. H. S. led in the last five minutes of the second half when fresh players replaced some of the Miami players, and a few baskets gave Miami the victory.
